

Women's Health Seminar

Female patients (adolescent and adults) account for over 56% of primary care consultations in Australia. The Women's Health Seminar provides an introduction to women's health conditions commonly seen in primary care, including sexually transmitted infections (STIs), cervical screening tests (CST), polycystic ovarian syndrome (PCOS), pregnancy and menopause.

The gender-specific health needs of women are a significant part of day-to-day work in general practice. There is a wide range of medical issues affecting women today, including those that impact on emotional and mental wellbeing, as well as physical health.

Exploring medical concerns pertinent to female patients, this program aims to enable GPs to better provide high-demand services that meet patients' needs.

Flexible, self-paced, remote learning, this online workshop is accredited and approved for CPD/PDP hours by both RACGP and ACRRM. Enrol, log in and participate at soniceducation.com.au.

Course information

Work through the online e-learning workshop at your own pace. The format of the course requires GPs to work through the modules, participate in each case discussion, complete the predisposing and reinforcing reflective activities and successfully complete the exams.

Predisposing activity - GPs complete prior to commencing the modules.

Course modules - includes video lectures, downloadable PDF slides and a recommended reading list.

Case discussions - provides an opportunity for GPs to interact with other participants and discuss the presented cases.

Assessment details - two types of assessments after each module: the knowledge and the application of knowledge MCQs.

Reinforcing activity - GPs reflect on the course once the e-learning workshop is completed.

Course completion and evaluation - completion of the evaluation questionnaire is a mandatory RACGP course requirement.
